RAINBOW REFLECTIONS

What if everything that happens in life is about discovering what is missing, and finding God's provision for that need?

He has made provision for every human need.

Originally as Creator, God made a perfect world. The Garden of Eden was paradise. Perfect peace, work without pressure or deadlines or overtime hours, every provision available, utter contentment. God walking with people as friends together.

How many holiday dollars are spent trying to experience a taste of that paradise?

How many renovation dollars are spent trying to recreate that haven?

We long for what is missing.

The most astonishing thing is that God has made a way for that perfection to be restored. Not yet to the whole world - that is coming, but to individual people, one by one. We CAN know peace, we can work without pressure, we can have security and contentment now, in this life.

God sent Jesus to become that way.

Jesus, Son of God and Son of Man, came to save what was lost - and what was lost was paradise.

There was a tremendously high price to pay to redeem all the brokenness, the heartache, the regret, the pain, the wounds of generations of nations of people. As God, Jesus gathered up every last bit of this sin into His own soul. As Man He died, taking it all with Him into the grave. Then, after 3 days Jesus rose from the ashes of death, and emerged from the grave. He remained 40 days with His friends, then returned to His throne in Heaven beside His Father God. A Man is on the throne of Heaven - how amazing is that?!

Each one of us is invited to follow Jesus through those 3 steps - to identify with Him, seeing ourselves and all our sin and brokenness on Him on the cross, to see Jesus take it and us to the grave, and to come out of the grave with Him, a new creation, born again, freed from the law of sin and death.

And that, dear friends, is just the beginning!

Blessings and love,

Sue Peacock

Residents' M9 orbital concerns addressed

By Ashleigh Tullis from the Advertiser

The state government's decision to tunnel part of the Outer Sydney Orbital route has left some residents in Wollondilly wondering what will happen to their homes.

The government amended its proposal to build an above ground motorway and freight rail line through Camden and Wollondilly villages last week.

Now, more than 10 kilometres of tunnelling will be used to bypass the villages of Cobbitty, Ellis Lane, Grasmere, Brownlow Hill and Cawdor.

Wollondilly MP Jai Rowell wanted to ease residents' concerns and promised residents would be consulted further before the final route was gazetted.

"About 10 to 13 properties in Wollondilly, mainly Menangle and Douglas Park, are currently affected by the orbital road," he said.

"With further refinement of the route's alignment and through community consultation, the impact on homes will be further reduced.

"That has been my goal all along."

Mr Rowell said Roads and Maritime Service representatives would have one-on-one meetings with any property owners still affected.

He reassured residents that more detailed maps and information would be provided in coming weeks.

"Nothing will be gazetted anytime soon," Mr Rowell said.

"We have not put a timeframe on the gazettal of the route because the community consultation process will take as long as it needs to."

The tunnel entrance/exit would also be located south-east of Cawdor Road and would reduce the impact on nearby properties.

Mr Rowell said further investigation of the location of the entrance/exit would occur so the least possible number of homes were impacted.

The government will move the interchange at the Hume Highway to Roads and Maritime Service owned land as opposed to private properties. Residents made this request in their submissions.

Residents took to Facebook to air their concerns following the announcement.

Sky Kyle-Brown said "it doesn't look like good news for those in other suburbs such as Menangle but great for some, I guess?"

Tracey Freestone said "it's not a win for Menangle and Douglas Park."

Michelle Campbell asked "what happens to poor Menangle?"

Wollondilly councillor Simon Landow said on Facebook that residents were back to square one following the announcement.

"The route is so vague with no information," he said.

"There is more unrest for the community.

"This is not a good outcome. Menangle will suffer because of development imposed on the historic town.

"Cobbitty was saved because of the impact, now

Menangle needs to be bypassed, or scrap this whole idea and go back to the drawing board.”

Outer Sydney Orbital Macarthur Action Group founder Jess Simpson said she still felt there was so much uncertainty.

“I suppose we will have to wait until we see proper plans,” she said.

Mr Rowell reminded residents that a diesel freight rail line was no longer part of the plan because in 20 to 40 years time, when the road was built, vehicles would likely be electrified or automated.

He said the pollution generated from vehicles in the tunnel would be considered and dealt with as technology changed over time.

Mr Rowell encouraged residents still concerned about the route to contact Transport for NSW, his office or Camden MP Chris Patterson’s office.

THEY MUST AGREE

As to matters that have no practical outcome it is of no consequence whether we agree or not. The earth may be, as some say it is, a molten mass save for a shell a few miles thick on the outside), or it may be solid and cool all the way through from London to Sydney. However it may be, we can do nothing about it. So let the scientific chaps go on speculating to their heart's content; the world will keep revolving as usual, and we shall have to continue picking up our living from its surface.

Recently in my reading I have come upon articles in certain medical journals— uncanny, uninteresting publications, that they are for nonprofessional perusal— going to show that; it is not the heart which impels the blood through the body, but the chemical action of oxygen inhaled by the lungs. A prodigious discovery if it is a discovery at all.

Yet what odds would it make? None whatever.

Fair women would blush by the help of the capillaries as of old, and we should tie rags around cut fingers just the same. It follows, my brethren, that some things may be mysteries to the end of the chapter, and no harm done, and others may differ without disturbing the serenity of our passing days— a most soothing reflection.

But the advantage or otherwise of a person's food agreeing or disagreeing with him is not a mere matter of opinion, There is only one way to look at that. As a whole, food must agree with us, and we with it, or we are ruined. A lady of Sheffield, Mrs. S. A. Smith, suffered a long, wearisome, and costly illness, simply because her food failed to agree with her. For three years she was weak and wretched on account of it. The light and pleasure were put out of her life. She needed to eat, of course, just as she needed to breathe; yet, after every meal— commonly of light things taken in small quantities, and slowly— she was immediately seized with pains in the stomach, the chest, and the left side. Was not this a hard recompense for doing what nature compelled her to do— to eat?

Any act which causes pain is performed as seldom as possible, and as incompletely. For who wants to suffer ?

Rating so little — not half as much as her body called for— Mrs. Smith lost flesh and strength.

Necessarily. Draw more money out of the bank than you deposit and presently the bank returns your cheques marked 'No funds,' to be sure..

Nobody can make twice two equal five.

“I got to be so feeble I could scarcely get about.” says the lady. “I was like this for three years from the spring of 1893— being worse in the spring than at other seasons. What to do more than I had done, I didn't know, when one day my aunt Mrs. William Andrew, of Willoughton urged me to take Mother Seigel's Syrup. After having done so for a short time, the complaint — indigestion— was better, and soon it wholly disappeared. I am now entirely cured and strong: and hearty as I was before my illness came upon me. You may rest assured that, after so fortunate an experience with Mother Seigel's Syrup, I recommended it to all my friends, and in sending you this short statement it is my wish that you should print it for the good of others if you so desire.” (Signed) S. A. Smith, 44, Ditchingham Road, Sheffield, June 3 1898.

In dealing with the night-soil business some years ago, our local Municipal Council wisely did away with cesspits, and compelling the use of the dry earth system. From a sanitary point of view, this was a splendid move, and no doubt saved the district from much sickness. But even from the pans in use there is an element of grave danger which we feel it our sacred duty to draw attention to, especially as the country is likely to be invaded by that deadly disease known as “bubonic” The danger from the pans arises through several people neglecting to use dry earth. The Council should give strict instructions to all house-holders to use ashes or dry earth daily. To simply use the pans as an ordinary cesspool is to court danger, and the continued neglect of the council's instruction in the matter will land Camden, some day, in a hot-bed of fever that may cost several lives before it can be conquered. Seeing that this matter affects the health of the district, we make no apology for giving it publicity, and rest assured that our worthy aldermen, will see that the evil complained of is remedied.

Women's health

" If exercise could be bottled it would be the miracle cure"
Researchers are united in their reading of the evidence - most of the diseases that afflict our modern sedentary society can be prevented, helped and even healed by regular exercise.

Weight bearing exercise, combined with cardio exercise are important, brisk walking is excellent, cycling, ascending stairs, playing sports, swimming, just moving!

The general consensus seems to be 150 minutes a week.

To make it fun, we provide a circuit of 11 different hydraulic resistance machines that give a full body workout when we go twice round plus 2 machines, including a thorough stretch of all those muscle groups, all in just 30 minutes.

We haven't bottled exercise, but we have packaged it to be accessible and affordable to women of all ages and fitness levels.

You are welcome!
